MOST ANYBODY CAN DO BUSINESS FAIRLY WELL. Many men can do business very well. A few can do it better. But the man who not only does his work well but adds to it a touch of personality through great zeal, patience and persistence, making it peculiar, unique, individual, distinct and unforgettable, an art, and this applies to all and every field of human endeavor. It is that last touch that counts. —F. A. Eberhart.

IF YOU WERE A CARPENTER AND DESIRED TO BUILD a strong wheel would you choose a stick of second growth hickory in preference to two pieces of soft pine glued together? By the same method as an advertiser desiring to build a prosperous business you select THE TRIBUNE as the vehicle and—well, you know THE TRIBUNE does not have to sell out or buy anything to prop itself up or do any loud talking, but goes on delivering the goods.

PORTLAND HONORS PRESIDENT TAFT

Chief Executive Greeted by the Largest Living Flag Yet Seen on His Journey.

MASS OF 20,000 CHILDREN IN RED, WHITE AND BLUE

Over-Zealous Man With Camera Arrested and Found to Be Armed.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 2.—Carrying out a programme which was arranged with special reference to his comfort and convenience, and yet calculated to give the people of the entire city an opportunity to see the chief executive of the nation, President Taft spent what he declared to be one of the pleasantest days of his western trip in Portland today.

During the forenoon the president received from some 20,000 school children of the city a tribute which brought tears to his eyes. The boys and girls were banded in red, white and blue rows in the grandstand on Multnomah field to form a living flag.

This form of tribute has been offered at other cities visited by Mr. Taft on his trip, but at no other place approached the magnitude of what proved to be the distinct feature of the day.

Great Living Flag.

The president entered the field through a gate at the crest of a hill, and the view of the children banded upon him all at once called out an expression of wonderment and delight. The entrance was the signal for an outburst of cheering from the young persons, which continued with unabated enthusiasm until Mr. Taft had taken his place arranged for him on a stand directly facing the "flag." Then he addressed a brief but stirring speech, which combined with their cheering, inspired him, he declared, as had no other sight in all his travels.

Following the motions of a leader, the children stooped from view, then sprang up with a cheer which fairly shook the air, and waved red, white and blue banners in a perfect storm of fluttering colors.

Then, at the command of the leader, the children held up a set of colored cards with a loud shout of "A," "B," "C," "D," "E," "F," "G," "H," "I," "J," "K," "L," "M," "N," "O," "P," "Q," "R," "S," "T," "U," "V," "W," "X," "Y," "Z," and the letters of the alphabet in various colors, which caused Mr. Taft unconsciously to exclaim: "That's a beautiful sight."

WRIGHT SETS NEW AEROPLANE RECORD

Has Red Letter Day in Aviation, Reaching Height of More Than 1600 Feet.

TAKES UP CROWN PRINCE AS PASSENGER ON VOYAGE

Sensational Flight in Far-Off Land Is Exciting World-Wide Attention.

POTSDAM, Oct. 2.—Orville Wright today broke his own and all other records for high flying. He reached the unprecedented height of more than 1600 feet, although an official measurement was not taken. He had a red letter day in a double sense in his experience as an aviator, taking up Crown Prince Frederick William as a passenger and more than doubling the altitude record, which he made recently over the same field.

The Crown Prince had been constantly urging Wright to take him up. Wright evaded this responsibility while making flights at the Tempelhof, owing to the unfavorable winds, but he finally consented today.

Prince Comes Alone.

The prince reached the field at 1:30 in the afternoon without his adjutant. After donning his overcoat at Wright's suggestion, to save his uniform from being spattered with oil, the prince took his seat alongside the aviator and the machine rose in the air. Wright kept it at a height of about twenty feet for a brief period. But the crown prince exclaimed: "Higher, higher!"

Finally the aviator went up above 1600 feet, and the crowd's hearty cheering of the prince, who waved his acknowledgments. The aeroplane glided back to the starting point ten minutes later.

The crown prince congratulated Mr. Wright on the ease and safety of the flight, and presented him with a souvenir of the occasion, a diamond and ruby stickpin, composing the letter "W" and crown. He watched the daring aviator make his high flight, which also was viewed by a large multitude. While the machine was at its greatest altitude excursionists on a naval steamer three miles distant thought it was a big box kite in the air, and were surprised when further examination showed the object to be Wright's aeroplane.

Wright's Statement.

When he returned to the earth, Wright, speaking of his marvelous flight, said: "I never flew so high before. No measurement was taken, but I estimate that I reached an altitude of 1600 feet. It is difficult to gauge height, but I make the estimate from the time it took me from the starting point to the greatest altitude."

Immediately after rising, I set the rudder at the maximum and kept climbing steadily for fifteen minutes, until the field and adjacent country reminded me of the picture I had from Zeppelin's airship, only things seemed smaller.

Makes Rapid Descent.

The descent I made in five minutes. I came down at a simply terrific speed. The whole machine shook as it rushed through the air, but my sensations were just the same as in lower altitudes. The air was no colder and the wind resistance was no greater."

With regard to his passenger, the crown prince, Mr. Wright said: "The prince did not say much more than 'fine' during the flight, but I was able to read his impressions from his face. I never took up a passenger who looked so pleased. He just smiled when we started, and he kept smiling all along. I felt a great responsibility in having the future German emperor as a passenger. Not that I mistrusted the machine, but any little irregularity might cause the people's anxiety. I stayed low at first, but the prince kept urging me to go higher."

DEAD MEN WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO VOTE

Effort Made to Check Alleged Fraudulent Practices of Tammany Hall.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—No dead men will vote in the coming election, if Mr. Parsons, chairman of the Republican committee, can prevent it. Mr. Parsons said today:

"There has been a popular impression that about thirty thousand fraudulent votes are cast at each election, but fifty thousand would be nearer the truth. The law requiring each voter to make his signature has cut down the illegal vote wonderfully, but further improvements are needed."

"In the last session of the legislature Tammany prevented us from perfecting the signature law. A deal was made in Washington last year whereby some of the up state Republicans, members of the assembly, agreed to help Tammany at Albany if the Tammany members of congress would vote with the Republican organization for the support of Uncle Joe Cannon and the house rules."

Charles E. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, said: "I don't know of any such deal. The charge has been made before."

GREAT CELEBRATION DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Spectacular Parade Ends New York's Share in Historic Event.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—New York City's share in the Hudson-Fulton celebration ended tonight with a carnival parade and a display of fireworks and warship illuminations on the Hudson river. Tomorrow most of the half-million men-of-war anchored here will begin their preparations for departure and the city's half-million visitors will pack their trunks and turn homeward.

The city was in its gayest mood tonight for the carnival pageant with thousands of marching men in costume of varied character and its fifty elaborate floats designed to recall not only the myths, legends and allegories of the old world, but also historical scenes which have inspired the writers of poetry, music and drama.

At 8 o'clock, when the long procession started the crowd of spectators was the greatest of the week's celebration. Magnificent Pageant.

Leading the pageant was an ornate float in the shape of a giant dragon spouting flames and surrounded by fire. For all the floats and their marching escorts, German, Swiss, Austrian and other societies provided the characters, who were dressed in appropriate costume, sparkling with spangles and gilt, brand beneath the half-million electric lights which blazed along the course.

At the end of the parade was "Uncle Sam welcoming the nations," preceded by "Cinderella with her slipper and her prince."

During the day the children of Greater New York had their fling. The whole city swarmed with the youthful celebrants and children's carnivals were held in every available open spot throughout the five boroughs. There were forty-six separate parades in which 500,000 children took part.

Because of weather conditions there were no flights by Glenn H. Curtiss or Wilbur Wright from Governors' Island today.

"FORCIBLE FEEDING" BASIS OF LITIGATION

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Writs have been issued against Home Secretary Gladstone and the prison officials of Birmingham in connection with an action for assault for the forcible feeding with a stomach pump last week of a number of suffragettes who persisted in going on a "hunger strike" while in jail. The suffragettes contend that forcible feeding is illegal.

TOWN HAS RIGHT TO EXCLUDE AUTOMOBILES.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 2.—The ordinance excluding automobiles from the streets of Bar Harbor, passed by the town government, is declared constitutional by the court, the highest tribunal in Maine, in a receipt handed down today.

The case grew out of the attempts of C. H. May to drive through the town in an automobile as a test of the law.

MINING CONGRESS CLOSES SESSION

Adopts Resolution Protesting Against Perpetual Water Power Rights.

ALSO DEMANDS REPEAL OF VEXING APEX LAW

"Wild Cat" Mining Schemes Placed Under Ban; Special Legislation Asked.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Oct. 2.—The Mining Congress closed its twelfth session here at noon today after adopting a resolution calling upon the national government to pass laws against granting perpetual franchises for waterpower or water rights in western states, and urging that similar state legislation be passed without waiting for congressional action.

The apex law, under which the discoverer of a mineral lode or vein can follow it outside the lines of his claim was another subject of discussion, and its repeal, with the substitution of a law making the side lines of a claim its limits when continued downward vertically, was urged.

"Wild-Cats" Condemned.

Wild-cat mining schemes were placed under the ban by the congress, which urged state and national legislation to prevent the operators of such schemes from diverting money of investors that might otherwise be used in developing legitimate properties.

J. H. Richards of Boise, Idaho, the retiring president of the congress, was given a handsome silver service by the delegates. A local branch of the congress with temporary headquarters at Goldfield, was organized with 300 charter members.

Los Angeles and Spokane have developed a lively rivalry for the next session of the congress. This question will be decided by the executive committee.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF OMAHA IS MISSING

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 2.—Friends of George W. Bowers, acting general manager of the packing plant of Armour & Company, who went to California on a hunting and prospecting expedition four weeks ago and has not been heard from since, are greatly exercised over his disappearance.

He left here September 4 for northern California, intending to be gone two weeks. His destination would probably be Yreka, Cal., but his intended trip would take him about one hundred miles inland.

Mr. Bowers is one of the best known packing house men in the country. Today telegrams were sent broadcast over the west in the hope of locating the missing man. He is described as being five feet nine inches in height and weighing 150 pounds; hair black and small mustache.

When Bowers left Omaha he carried with him more than $300, and this leads his friends to fear foul play.

BAY STATE REPUBLICANS QUICKLY NAME TICKET

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The Massachusetts Republican convention today adopted a platform and nominated candidates to be voted for in November next.

In an eulogistic speech, United States Senator Lodge moved the nomination of Governor Eben S. Draper for re-election. The motion was adopted unanimously. Governor Draper spoke briefly in recognition of the compliment.

The other state officers were unanimously nominated, as follows: Lieutenant-governor, Louis A. Frothingham. Secretary of state, William G. Olin. Treasurer and receiver-general, Elmer A. Stevens.

Attorney-general, Dana Malone. Auditor, H. E. Turner.

The convention then adjourned.

BURGLAR RUNS INTO ARMS OF OFFICER

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 2.—Two burglars were foiled by secret service men in a spectacular manner early today during an attempt to rob the Broadway post-office. One was captured.

The detectives have been following the gang for three years, but in spite of their efforts the thieves have raided postoffices at half a dozen Illinois towns, their haul amounting to thousands of dollars in cash and stamps.

Learning of the plan to visit Broadway, the officers lay in wait in a granary next door and the intruders were allowed to begin drilling on a small safe, when a shot was fired. The burglars fled, but one ran into the officers' arms. The other crashed through a window, turned a somersault and escaped in the fog.

The prisoner refused to give his name.

LINDQUIST MANAGER OF NEWHOUSE MINES

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—T. R. Dunnhead has resigned as general manager of the Newhouse mines and smelters to accept a more lucrative position, and has been succeeded by Emil Lindquist, as acting manager. Mr. Lindquist is a Utah man. Educated at the university, after several years in Salt Lake City assay offices on empire and control work in 1903 he became connected with the Utah Consolidated Mining company as assayer and surveyor and later had charge of the development work. In 1908 he went to the Newhouse mines and smelters.

Gompers Starts Home.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, accompanied by his wife and daughter, left today for New York on the La Savoie for New York.

GENTILES COULDN'T GET A "LOOK IN"

That's Why President's Visit Was Disappointing to His Real Friends Here.

BROTHER SHORT'S BAD BREAK INTO POLITICS

Methodists Would Not Condone Action of Their Pastor, and He "Backs Up."

(BY MAC.)

A whole lot of people, President Taft and his attaché, Captain Butt, included, want to know why the atmosphere was so frigid during the executive's visit to Salt Lake. But to those who understand local conditions, there is no mystery about this.

Very soon after it was understood that the president would visit Salt Lake, a sincere effort was made to have his visit free from partisan bias, political rancor and the self-seeking and mercenary machinations of the Mormon priesthood. It was early seen that Smoot would dictate the appointment of the committees, and his dictation always means the recognition of Mormons, jack-Mormons and a small sprinkling of respectable Gentiles. Though protest was made against the monopolizing of the president's time here by the factions subservient to the Mormonized priests, the protests were carefully kept from the president, and he was led into a trap that must have been humiliating to himself as well as to his real friends in this state.

Yes, the air was frigid. And while Senator Smoot convinced some people that he was close to the president, he did not convince the president that he was close to the people. Salt Lake has no use for the Red Smoot. Utah has no use for the "federal bunch."

And the sooner that President Taft learns this the earlier he will discover that the manner in which he was used to his trail across the continent was not calculated to shed lustre to his trail across the continent.

Had there been no partiality shown in the appointment of the committees and in the management of the president's visit, the stay in Salt Lake would have been a royal occasion, another of hearty goodwill and spontaneous enthusiasm. As it was, the average Gentile citizen said in his heart, "Well, the Mormons have captured him, now let them entertain him!—they won't permit us to do so."

There is a growing suspicion that, while President Roosevelt knew of and condoned the lawless acts of the Mormon hierarchy in Utah, that President Taft has merely become a tool to condone the law and that polygamy is rampant. President Taft may not know these things, but he has been advised to inquire into them, and if he does not inquire, it will be because he prefers the peace of ignorance rather than the turmoil which must necessarily follow in the wake of wisdom. But even he knows enough of the national disrepute of the Mormon leaders to avoid reaching out his hand of fellowship to the fake prophet in public places.

He did not hold to his bosom the chief "Lion of the Lord," although it is said that the Reverend "J. Fielding Smith" had a couple of the members of his harem accompany President Taft on the Saltair trip.

It must have been humiliating to the average saint, who believes that his prophet, seer and revelator is the greatest since the apostles, to have the president of the United States not dare to invite him into his automobile, or do him courtesy that the people might see, although Mr. Taft was the guest of the city that is the center of the chief hierarchy's domination.

Would President Taft have hesitated to meet great men of either of the evangelical churches on the Sunday morning of his visit, had they lived in Salt Lake? Would he have had to apologize for grasping the hand of Cardinal Gibbons or Archbishop Ireland, or any other great leader in the world of religious endeavor?

Not on your Billy Possum! But had he been in the company of Fielding Smith, with him on his automobile ride, it would have occupied the remainder of his life to explain to the best people of the United States why he did so? And Mr. Taft doubtless had plenty of opportunity to put himself in such a pickle had he not have been "wised up to the situation."

The whole truth of the incident of Governor Sny's hesitating to go into the Catholic church may never be known. But there are thousands of people in Salt Lake who have a pretty good idea about this, remembering how strong are the convictions of the mayor and the American members of the city council. Many have voiced the opinion that the governor never would have entered had not Chief Justice Straup insisted. And, while an irresponsible reporter misrepresents the facts to his newspaper concerning the interference of Captain Butt, there are a whole lot of people who still believe that Governor Sny's explanation of that incident was not a candid one.

City Engineer's Kelley's attitude since the renomination of Mayor Brunsford is so arrogant that there is wondering just how long the mayor and the American members of the city council will be willing to put up with him. Kelley has caused more trouble for the present administration than all the enemies of the party beyond the sheepfold. And, while there is very little doubt that he will be "ditched" eventually, he has perhaps fortified himself so as to cause a deal of grief before.
